In the twenty-first century and the beginning of the third millennium, most of the world's populations manage to survive normally. Thus, the Yemeni people live in extremely miserable humanitarian economic, political and security conditions. Not to mention the prevailing wars and military conflicts depriving many Yemenis of their happiness.

Such happiness turned into misery and anxiety. This condemned situation made the once-happy Yemen a large area afflicted with poverty, unemployment, famine, groans of wretchedness and disease. UN reports indicate that about 25 million people in Yemen are in need of any kind of urgent humanitarian intervention in various areas of life.

These include necessary interventions in the field of food, health, and the fight against epidemics that hit male and female children and adults alike. Such interventions are necessary for protection, education and improving livelihoods to address the tragedies of IDPs and refugees imposed by the current conditions in the country.

Certainly, those who might have visited Yemen in recent years have seen and been made aware of the Yemeni people's deplorable humanitarian conditions.

Such visitors must have felt agony to heart and conscience from the awful state they saw indeed thousands or millions of homeless, IDP, poor, vulnerable and needy people. To provide more solutions, treatments and help to the population most in need, Human Access, in 2020, with its local and international partners, made their best efforts necessary and possible to deliver its humanitarian interventions to millions of beneficiaries in various regions of Yemen. Such efforts are reflected by implementing a package of diversified projects and programs, which include humanitarian acts, services and activities, assist the targeted categories, support poor and displaced families, and support the sick, orphans and needy people.

Those segments of people experienced aggravated intolerable conditions of life, bitter harshness and painful life afflicted them. They faced an unequal confrontation, with the repercussions of poverty, unemployment, struggle against hunger and disease, misery, deprivation, and troubles of displacement and homelessness. Perhaps the report's reader will clearly notice everything that Human Access has provided during 2020, in its various fields of humanitarian interventions, targeting the most vulnerable and needy segments of the population, and taking advantage of its active partnership embodied in the cooperation with the following stakeholders: relevant government authorities, local and international humanitarian organizations, and social and charitable figures.

In such efforts, Human Access invested its precedence in humanitarian work in Yemen, with more than thirty years long experience in the field, through a qualified proficient team of workers and volunteers in various regions of Yemen. This competent team is characterized with experience and skills that contribute to their positive handling of obstacles and overcoming difficulties. We express our thanks to all participants in such endeavors and leave the room for the reader of this report to see for himself/herself what has been implemented and convey what he/she read to others, so that the benefit will be known at a far wider scope and scale.

Development And Giving

2021 - 1990

Our Vision

A reference for local and regional charitable and developmental work.

Our Mission

Contribute to achieving development and reduce poverty in Yemeni society by investing in voluntary effort and partnership with local communities and donor organizations, with priority given to the countryside and groups of youth, women and children.

Who we are

Non-governmental, independent, non-profit, humanitarian, development, charitable, and a voluntary organization.

Our Values

- Institutionalism
- Transparency
- Partnership
- Accountability
- Quality and development
- Professionalism

Establishment

HUMAN ACCESS was established in March 1990 by a group of volunteers and social figures as a voluntary non-governmental organization that implements its programs, projects and services according to periodic plans, a deliberate and renewed strategy, and a method of work based on a scientific methodology, to be an effective link between donors and beneficiaries.

Objectives

- Combat and control poverty in Yemen.
- Promote and support sustainable development in rural and urban areas.
- Development and empowerment of youth, women and children and building their capabilities and skills.
- Ensure health, social and educational care of the community.
- Revive the spirit of solidarity and create a culture of volunteer work in the community.
- Mitigate the damage caused by disasters.
- Expanding the scope of work and building bridges of relationship with the region and beyond

Business Style

Through the 2020 strategy, HUMAN ACCESS has identified clear determinants of a new business method based on the scientific methodology to identify needs, design and develop projects for marketing and implementation with due attention to impact tracking, investigation and evaluation of implementation stages. This is in order to continue development and improvement in performance, service and product according to the following specifications and steps:

- Determine the need by field surveys, assessments and studies.
- Design projects necessary to meet the need, according to priority
- Marketing projects
- Signing contracts with donors
- Implementation of projects
- Documentation of projects in all stages of implementation

- Delivery of progress reports of projects to the funding agencies
- Evaluate projects with stakeholders
- Investigate the impact of projects on society

Institutionalism

Since its inception, HUMAN ACCESS has been doing its best to depend on human and material energies and capabilities to the advantage of institutional volunteer work. In its administrative system, HUMAN ACCESS relies on an organizational structure that has clear competence and powers.

It also relies on proper planning and accurate evaluation of all its various projects, programs and services implemented through its branches, sectors and committees in various governorates, investing all experiences in developing the administrative and financial system whenever the need arises to keep pace with the rapid changes and developments.

Our Partners

Partnership with others represents a fundamental and essential pillar of HUMAN ACCESS policy and its orientations. Indeed, the issue of partnership with the authorities, local communities, organizations, and local, regional and international institutions represents one of HUMAN ACCESS ideals as well as a basic and prominent element in its methodology and policy.

Throughout its long career in volunteer and humanitarian work, HUMAN ACCESS has been able to gain the confidence of many different partners and donors. Of these, the most important partners with whom HUMAN ACCESS works are as follows:

- Governmental departments
- International organizations
- Donors and financiers
- Beneficiaries
- Implementing partners
- Workers
- Suppliers
- Volunteers

Relations and Membership

HUMAN ACCESS has a strong and renewed relationship with development partners at home and abroad. It has joint efforts with the official and popular authorities. It is also distinguished by a tangible presence in many charitable and humanitarian activities.

During its period of operation, which extends for nearly three decades, HUMAN ACCESS obtained many memberships in various organizations and bodies, including the following memberships:

- An advisory member of the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations (ECOSOC).
- Associate member of the United Nations Department of Public Information (DPI-NGO).
- Member of the Arab Union for Voluntary Work in the Arab League.
- Member in many local, Arab, and international organizations and networks working in various fields of volunteer and humanitarian work.

Scope of Work

HUMAN ACCESS, with its various activities and services, covers the entire territory of the Republic. As part of these efforts, a large network of workers and volunteers is investing in its branches and committees in the governorates and directorates inside Yemen.

HUMAN ACCESS has 26 branches and 279 committees in addition to an office outside of Yemen in the State of Djibouti. This office provides services to Yemeni refugees there. HUMAN ACCESS is also seeking to open additional external offices in neighboring regional countries.

Priorities

By the year 2020 strategy, HUMAN ACCESS determined its priorities for the next phase, based on lengthy discussions that took several months.

Subsequently, HUMAN ACCESS felt the necessity and importance of focusing on sustainable development as a priority preceding attention to aspects of relief and immediate care, bearing in mind that sustainable development is the cornerstone and the largest factor in achieving progress and comprehensive societal advancement.

The main programs and projects implemented

1. Food Aid Relief

The deterioration of the economic situation resulting from the continuing war in Yemen and the decline in the price of the local currency led to an increase in the prices of basic living commodities. As many of the residents cannot provide the amount of food they need, or even the minimum of it, especially families who have lost their sources of livelihood due to the continuation of the war for nearly six years. This constant war has forced them to flee their areas and seek to live in safer and more stable areas.

To contribute to alleviating the suffering of hundreds of thousands of these and others who are crushed by poverty and starved of hunger, HUMAN ACCESS, with many partners and donors, implemented a food relief project, through which food baskets consisting of wheat, rice, sugar, cooking oil and legumes were distributed. The project, which was implemented throughout the year, also contributed to support and alleviate the suffering of hundreds of thousands of needy and poor families who benefited from the distribution of food baskets.

2. Ramadan food projects

In a country like Yemen, where poverty rates are rising year after year, the poor, the public, and the needy are anxiously waiting for the month of Ramadan. It is a season in which aspects of righteousness and charity abound among people, and during which the level of compassion and social and human solidarity in society rises.

In an effort to deepen these principles and strengthen their bonds and to help the poor and needy, HUMAN ACCESS implemented during the year 2020 a number of Ramadan food projects. These projects included the distribution of food baskets consisting of wheat, rice, sugar, beans, dates, milk, cooking oil, the implementation of fasting breakfast tables and meals, the distribution of fruit and vegetable baskets, and the distribution of dates, bread and milk for children. These projects have contributed to alleviating the suffering of hundreds of thousands of beneficiaries from the needy, poor, affected and displaced groups.

3. General Food Aid (GFA) Distribution Project

Lahjji governorate suffers from a severe increase in poverty among the population. This is aggravated by severe food insecurity. Most of the residents in this poor governorate live on traditional pastoralist and farmers, as is the case in most areas of Yemen.

Many residents of this southwestern province of Yemen also face arduous and exhausting suffering. They work hard for livelihoods and sources of income which will provide them and their families with a minimal share of food security.

To alleviate this suffering, HUMAN ACCESS implemented during the year 2020 a project to distribute life-saving food aid on a monthly and continually basis, targeting the poor, needy, affected, displaced and the most needy families in accordance with the criteria approved by the funding partner, World Food Program (WFP).

In addition, this aid is provided in three different ways (distribution of food baskets, food vouchers and cash assistance).

The project was implemented in Taizz city in Salah district. 48,958 individuals are benefited monthly from this project. The distributed food was 6,147 tons. As for the distribution of the food vouchers in Lahjji in AIQabbayta district for more than 15,091 individuals in month.

Also in Lahjji at districts (AlHad, Labous, Yaheer, AIMafahi, AIMelah, Halmeen, Habeel Jabr, Tur AlBaha, AIMaqatera, AIMudhareba) the cash remittances project was done for 305,326 persons in month during 2020.

4. Meat distribution projects

In response to the desire of many institutions and charities at home and abroad to support and assist poor families and those in need of meat, and to perform the rituals of the Prophet Abraham, peace be upon him, in the sacrifice slaughtering, since 29 years until now, HUMAN ACCESS has adopted a project to distribute sacrificial meat in all governorates of Yemen. The project is implemented in coordination with a number of supporting organizations, bodies and personalities.

The distribution of meat brings joy and happiness to the hearts of hundreds of thousands of members of poor families, orphans, families of displaced persons, refugees and others in need during the days of Eid al-Adha.

Meat is also distributed to the beneficiaries during the holy month of Ramadan and during the first ten days of Dhu al-Hijjah month. Meat, in addition, is distributed to the poor on occasions throughout the year.

5. Sponsorships and cash food assistance

Yemen suffers from the enormous size and number of the poorest groups in society, which are usually symptoms of the tragedies of poverty and deprivation that are attributed to unemployment, lack of job opportunities and loss of livelihoods and sources of income. This left tens of thousands of these people living in extreme suffering and very difficult lives.

To alleviate this suffering, reduce the increasing numbers of the poorest and most vulnerable, and reduce their size in society, HUMAN ACCESS, in partnership with several donor organizations and personalities, is implementing a monthly food security program and an emergency food and cash assistance project. The target beneficiaries are the poorest families, the sick, orphans and the destitute.

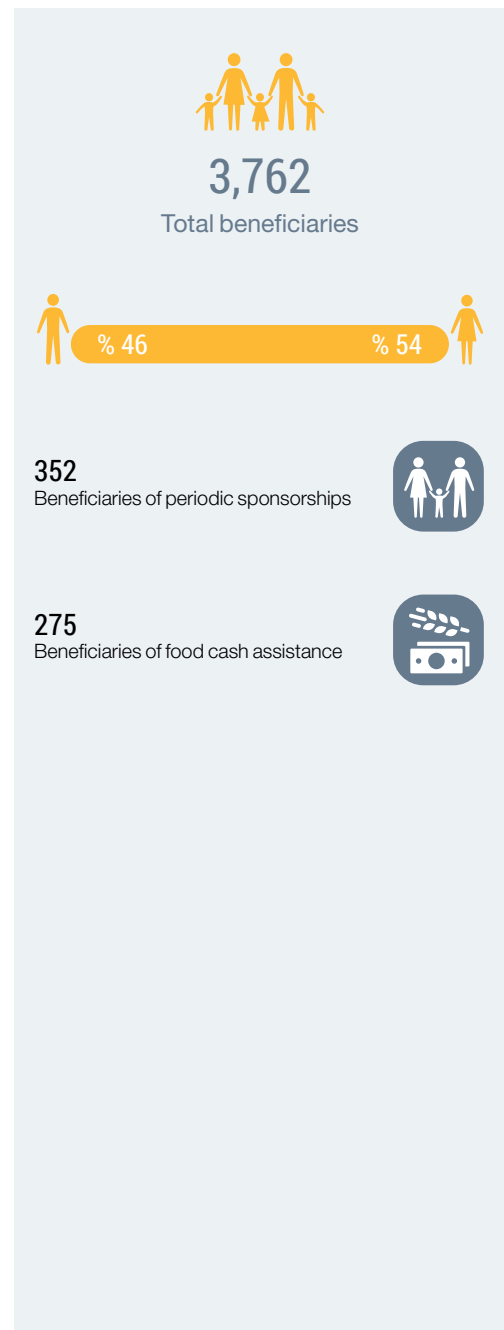

During the year 2020, these financial sponsorships and aid were disbursed. Tens of thousands of people benefited from this aid in various governorates of Yemen.

Main programs and
projects implemented

1. Emergency response to the corona virus pandemic

International warnings of a catastrophic outbreak of the new Corona virus (Covid 19) are renewed in Yemen, whose people have been suffering from a continuous war for more than five years. This war has caused great damages to its health system and infrastructure. Where the first case was announced on April 10, 2020, and there is a very real possibility that the virus has spread among local communities without being detected, and this increases the possibility of a sudden and catastrophic increase in the number of infected cases.

To reduce the risk of the outbreak of this pandemic, HUMAN ACCESS with its partners has accelerated for months in the implementation of emergency response projects and programs represented in the implementation of various community awareness campaigns, providing support to a number of health facilities and providing them with protection and prevention tools, training teams of volunteers, workers, health and administrative cadres on precautionary measures and forming committees and emergency response teams to ensure the continuity of providing project services to the targeted (health - relief - protection - water) and other necessary and basic projects.

2. Treatment of malnourished patients

Poverty and hunger have killed hundreds of thousands of people in many Yemeni governorates for decades now. This situation turned from bad to worse. In recent years, signs of famine have appeared in some regions and districts, especially areas with high population density or deprived of development projects and programs, and many of whose residents lack the means and sources of livelihood.

Tens of thousands of children and pregnant and lactating women suffer from severe acute malnutrition outbreaks as a result of insufficient nutrition and increasing morbidity rates among children under the age of five.

To alleviate this suffering and reduce the mortality rate due to malnutrition among children under five years of age and pregnant and lactating women, HUMAN ACCESS, in partnership with the World Food Program (WFP), implemented a project to treat malnourished patients in some districts of Taiz, Lahj and Marib governorates.

3. Reproductive Health Care

For decades, the competent government agencies and local authorities in Yemen, along with many humanitarian, local and international organizations, have made tangible efforts in the field of developing reproductive health and family planning, in a country suffering from a high population growth rate matched by an accelerating pace of decline in economic and health development rates and a frightening deterioration in the comprehensive development rates.

HUMAN ACCESS has been one of the leading organizations involved in this matter for over two decades. During 2020, HUMAN ACCESS, in partnership with the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), implemented this project, which provided a range of health services and activities carried out by fixed health facilities, mobile medical teams and clinics.

These services and activities contributed to reducing maternal and newborn deaths, and limiting the spread of diseases related to reproductive health in the targeted areas, as well as raising awareness of reproductive health and family planning issues.

To enhance the primary health care services in several districts in the Governorates of Abyan and Lahj, HUMAN ACCESS in 2020, in partnership with the Yemen Humanitarian Fund (YHF), implemented the High Impact Health Response Project.

The project achieved a high impact response in medical consultation services, implementing a number of training and rehabilitation programs, health awareness and education activities, and monthly incentives for health workers in health facilities in the districts targeted by the project.

5. Emergency Health Response Project (MSP)

In any country, the primary health care service, even at its minimum level, is one of the most important and necessary services. In the context of implementing comprehensive health care services, and in an alternative like Yemen, most of its residents suffer from a deteriorating of the health situation, especially in remote and deprived areas. This service acquires great importance and this this explains the keenness of HUMAN ACCESS with many of its partners to implement it continuously, as hundreds of thousands of poor patients benefit annually.

In order to continue to achieve this, HUMAN ACCESS implemented during 2020, in partnership with the World Health Organization (WHO), the Emergency Health Response Project (MSP) in a number of districts in the governorates of Abyan and Al-Jawf. This project contributed in providing the medical services for more than (150,000) individuals, supporting the health workers in the medical facilities with monthly cash incentives, implementation of training and rehabilitation programs, and awareness and health education activities.

6. Curative Support and Operation of Health Facilities

Chronic disease patients in Yemen increase year after year for many reasons, including the lack of awareness of the importance of adopting correct and proper nutrition methods, the continuous deterioration of the health conditions in the country, and the increase in disability and people with special needs due to the large number of congenital deformities in newborns and children, in addition to the wounded and the handicapped as a result of continuous conflicts and wars.

These groups are more vulnerable to suffering, anxiety, and debilitating illnesses, especially when they do not receive necessary medical service on time.

In order to alleviate the suffering and pain of tens of thousands of these patients during the year 2020, HUMAN ACCESS implemented a number of health care services and support, as well as health awareness and education activities, which benefited more thirty thousand people in various governorates of the Republic.

It also supported and operated 25 health facilities to provide the following services: primary health care services, mother and child services, health education, and combating epidemic and endemic diseases.

Main programs and
projects implemented

1. Water projects, drilling and operating wells

Most of Yemen's population has difficulty obtaining clean drinking water and for human use. This suffering increases in remote and deprived areas, where the majority of families face constant difficulties in providing and transporting drinking water to the home. They use simple, traditional means. Water is transported from far away, either on the back of donkeys or on the shoulders and heads of women and children.

To alleviate this hardship, and reduce physical and psychological problems, Human Access, in partnership with organizations, associations and philanthropists, implements multi-service water projects in various governorates of the Republic.

Many of these projects were implemented during the year 2020, including: drilling artesian wells, building reservoirs to conserve water, and installing water transmission networks and pumps.

2. Water Relief Projects (Providing the clean water)

To alleviate the suffering of tens of thousands of poor and needy families, who lack adequate sources of income, and face arduous difficulties in obtaining their basic living needs, Human Access has been implementing the water irrigation and conservation project for two decades in a number of districts and governorates.

This project contributes to providing large quantities of potable water to reduce the use of polluted water in the areas it targets, which will have a positive impact on reducing the death rate resulting from the use of polluted water.

During 2020, the project was implemented in nine governorates in partnership with organizations, associations and active dignitaries.

1. Protection and Livelihoods Support Project

To meet the requirements of combating gender-based violence for affected communities in emergencies and displacement, Human Access implemented the project to support gender services and activities through establishing the safe spaces for women and girls, and promoting awareness and livelihoods in the target governorates.

The project sought to strengthen services to combat and oppose gender-based violence, raise awareness and improve living conditions for women and girls from host communities, and the most vulnerable internally displaced persons, and to identify and address the needs of GBV survivors by providing appropriate services according to an assessment of each case through safe spaces activities and services for women and girls, and increasing the capacity of survivors of gender-based violence.

2. Saving-life Protection Services

The project is concerned with providing first-line responses to protection and life-saving support for the most vulnerable groups of displaced people and host communities, and ensuring access to a wide range of services and programs that meet the needs of people of all ages by monitoring people affected by conflict, human rights violations, protection challenges and providing psychological, social and legal support services. It also implements various recreational and cultural activities through friendly spaces, provides cash assistance, training and rehabilitation, and supports projects to improve livelihoods for families affected by conflict and survivors of violence to ensure rehabilitation and community adaptation.

Human Access provided these services through establishing one community center in Marib city. These services include awareness and education activities, forming community-based network committees to monitor cases of violations, facilitating protection issues access to community centers, building the capacities of members of local authority, representatives of civil society organizations, members of community committees, and community activists and advocates for protection on human rights and against violence and violations.

3. Shelter and non-food items

Unfortunately, in my country, Yemen, there are hundreds of thousands of displaced and affected people. These are forced by the condemned war and the futile military conflicts to leave their areas, towns and villages, which were once safe and where they were always familiar with. Under these conditions, ways of life and living there cannot be in fact normal, or complete with basic and essential requirements, not to mention what the heart may long for, desires and secondary needs, which for many of them have become impossible dreams and wishes.

Due to the importance of supporting the displaced and those affected by the conflicts in this afflicted country, Human Access, in partnership with many organizations, associations and dignitaries, has adopted a set of projects and shelter relief services, in various governorates of Yemen. Since the governorates don't have IDP but they have effected people are suffering as much as the IDPs in other areas.

In 2020, these projects were implemented across Yemen's governorates, in partnership with more than twenty organizations, associations and influential dignitaries. More than seven and thirty thousand of displaced and deprived people have benefited from the projects in the targeted areas.

1. Educational support and care

Education is both the basis and the means of development. No society whatsoever can achieve any development or renaissance without successful education. Numerous renaissance experiences have been proven in a number of contemporary countries. Effective education has been the cornerstone and the first and last pillar in achieving the desired goal and the level of progress these countries reached in various fields of life.

Based on this important principle, and in order to combat the phenomenon of school dropout that is increasing in Yemen during this particular stage, HUMAN ACCESS, in partnership with organizations, associations and other personalities, implements various educational care projects and services.

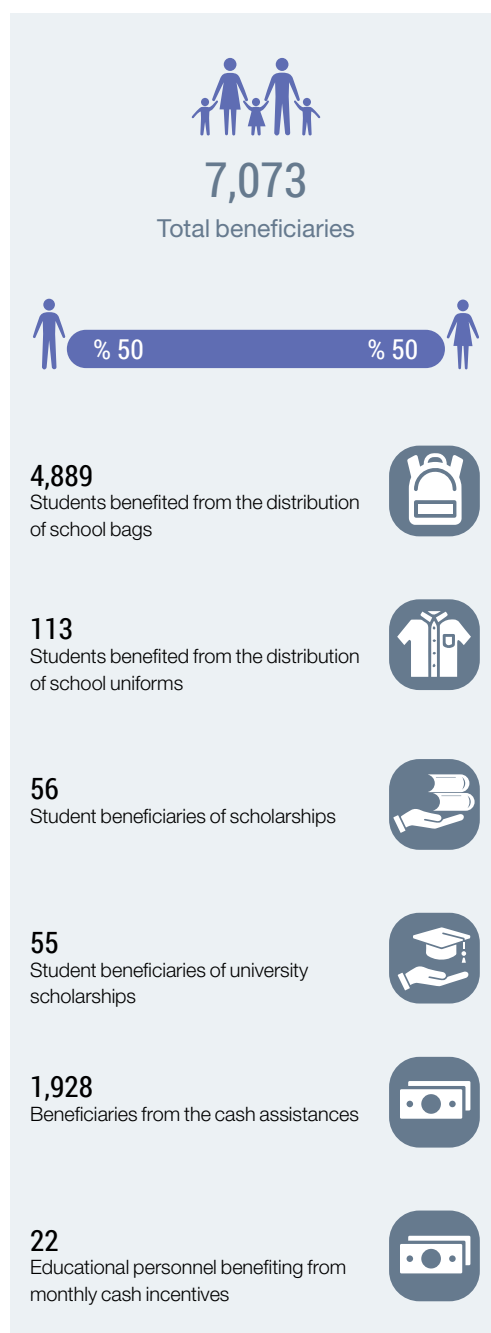

In 2020, these projects and services were implemented in various governorates of Yemen. Tens of thousands of male and female students and teachers benefited from the projects. Extracurricular activities and educational events were also implemented.

3. Economic empowerment and support for small projects

Small business enterprises are a strong foundation to support the infrastructure and commercial economic empowerment of families and individuals. Its importance in local communities increases due to the absence of large or medium-sized economic development projects and programs, as many of these societies resort to adopting and forming such projects with their simple efforts. Their enthusiasm for adopting projects increases when they find someone who supports them in development and feasibility and prevents the decline in production.

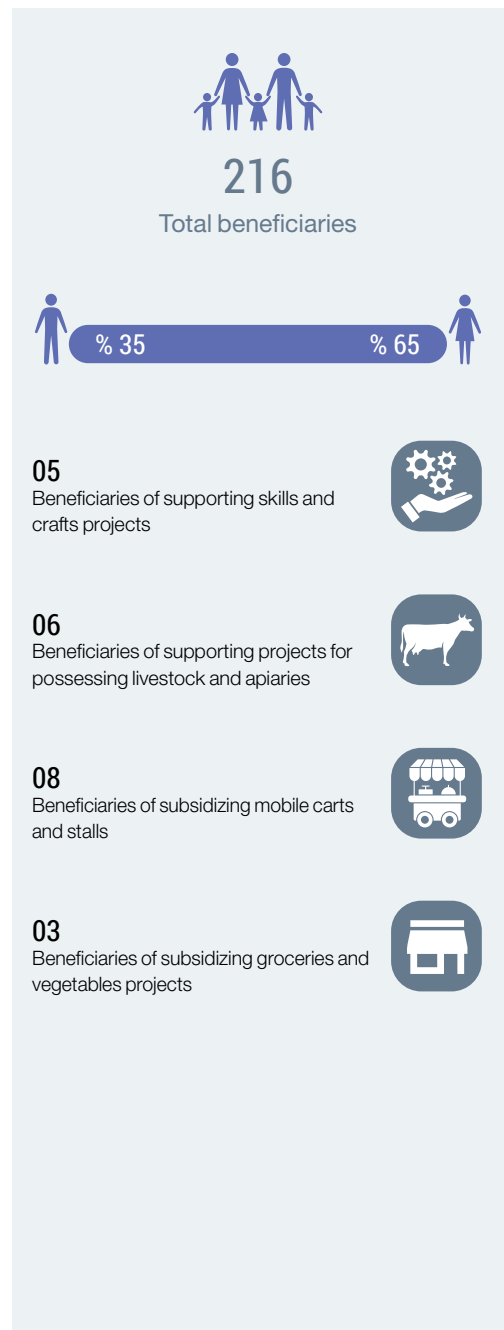

During the past years of HUMAN ACCESS's life, the small projects and programs it implemented with its local and international partners have proven tangible success in making the beneficiaries able to endure economic and living crises, and recover from their negative effects and risks. The projects also enabled the beneficiaries to provide livelihoods that help them find the requirements of living.

4. Training, qualification and capacity development

Qualified human cadre in any society is one of the basics for building its renaissance and achieving comprehensive development. Thanks to the efforts of these employees and the diverse technical and scientific knowledge that they possess, societal lifestyles develop and progress in their various forms.

No effective institution, company, or organization is devoid of setting the necessary plans and allocating sufficient budget to implement various training and qualification programs with the aim of developing the capabilities of workers, improving performance, and the quality of production and services.

HUMAN ACCESS may have preceded other humanitarian organizations, especially local organizations, in adopting many varied training and qualification programs, technical and skill education, human languages, and administrative and financial sciences. These programs have greatly contributed to the rehabilitation of thousands of individuals and children from poor and needy families in the targeted communities, and the rehabilitation of thousands of orphans and workers in the various sectors of HUMAN ACCESS and the volunteers involved with it in the implementation of projects and humanitarian services.

1. Orphan Sponsorship and Care

Children are the hope and flavor of life in every community on the planet. They are also the strong and solid building blocks that we strongly wish for in building the future, and addressing what their predecessors have missed, including visions, ideas, methods, and scientific and practical programs that can contribute to building society and promoting its comprehensive development.

A segment or class emerged from childhood society, as long as many geniuses, talents and innovators appeared in its ranks, making their societies delighted with their wonderful contributions and creativity in various fields of life.

This category includes orphans who start their lives with simplicity and humility in abilities, but when they find sufficient and necessary support, and have the opportunity to use data of success and distinction, they excel with distinction over many of their peers who are blessed with abundance of money and tenderness.

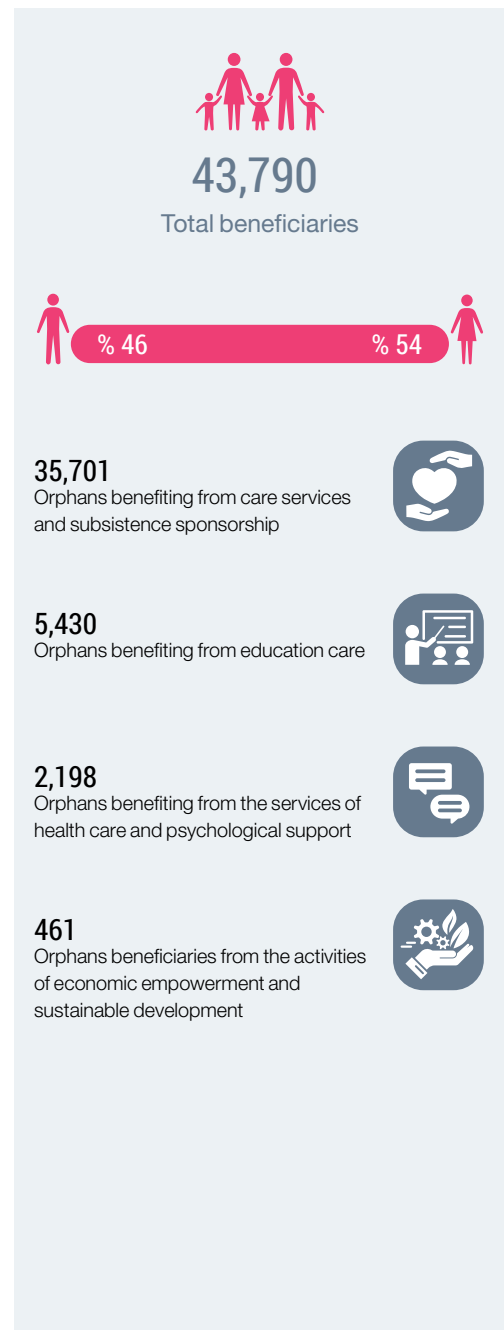

From this standpoint, HUMAN ACCESS has realized since its inception in 1990, the absolute necessity of caring for Yemeni orphans in the areas of society, health, education, qualifying them for the labor market, and enabling them to impose creativity, success and distinction in life. Therefore, it created a private sector to carry out this very beneficial and fruitful task through its committees, offices and branches spread throughout the governorates of the Republic.

2. Multi-Humanitarian Response for Yemeni refugees in Djibouti

Longing to return to the afflicted homeland, the situation of Yemeni refugees in Djibouti remains unchanged from daily suffering, scarcity of food, lack of basic living services, and psychological suffering as a result of their distance from their families and homeland due to the wars and conflicts, in addition to having to leave their areas, leaving behind their simple possessions, and losing their savings and livelihoods.

To provide part of the food needs of these refugees, and to alleviate the effects of the humanitarian crisis that they experience in refugee camps, in 2020, HUMAN ACCESS, in partnership with supporting organizations and activists, implemented these projects including the fields of food, health care, hygiene, education, and training. Thousands of Yemeni refugees in Djibouti and needy members of the host community benefited from these projects.
